

A hand-drawn perspective sketch of a modern, multi-story building. The building features a flat roof with several rectangular skylights. Large windows are visible on the upper floors. The drawing is a cutaway, showing the internal structure and a central courtyard area. The building is situated on a grid-lined paper, and there are some additional sketches of trees and a car in the background.